U.S. Truck Convoy

Cuba Informs Refugees

SAIGON, South Viet Nam. (AP) — A 20-truck convoy of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division was ambushed by the Viet Cong Friday night and the Americans suffered moderate casualties, a military spokesman said.

The Communist guerrillas let the lead security vehicles and the first part of the convoy pass, then blasted the eight or nine vehicles in the rear with mines, mortars and automatic weapons fire.

A 20-minute fight followed and the Americans finally continued along the road, the spokesman said.

The ambush occurred just south of Phuoc Vinh, about 40 miles north of Saigon, where elements of the "Big Red One," as the division is known, have been conducting an operation.

The ambush was described as the biggest in which U.S. forces have been caught in the Viet Nam war.

A reconnaissance unit swept the area before the convoy was ambushed but made no contact with the Viet Cong, the spokesman said. The convoy was a company-sized unit, which normally consists of between 100 and 200 men, he said.

A big U.S. and Australian operation on the edge of the Viet Cong's war zone D, about 30 miles north of Saigon, continued today but only sporadic contact with the enemy was reported.

A U.S. military spokesman said the paratroopers from the 173rd Airborne Brigade used a small amount of non-lethal tear gas Friday in an effort to flush out Communist guerrillas from tunnels and bunkers.

The spokesman said the results were not satisfactory because the tunnels were apparently empty.

It was the first authorized use of nonlethal gas since last January. When news of that operation leaked out in March, it caused such a world-wide furor that use of tear gas was discontinued.

The spokesman said the allied forces encountered sporadic but continuous sniper fire as they looked for the Viet Cong and destroyed enemy installations in the jungle area near the district capital of Ben Cat.

Moderate casualties were inflicted on the paratroopers Friday when the Viet Cong mined an armored personnel carrier moving into Ben Cat along Highway 13.

Thousands of troops launched the offensive Friday, after two assaults by Guam-based B52 bombers. U.S. authorities reported "significant contact" but reports from the scene said the fighting was not so heavy as reports first had indicated.

The B52s struck again today — this time at suspected Viet Cong targets near Hue, about 395 miles northeast of Saigon. It was the 42nd announced raid by the eight-engine bombers since beginning of the Viet Nam War. Elements of the South Korean 2nd Marine Brigade began unloading from a U.S. troop ship in the South China Sea port of Cam Ranh Bay today. They will provide security for the massive logistics buildup at the port, 180 miles northeast of Saigon.

The Marines are the first Korean combat troops to arrive in Viet Nam, except for the security forces which accompanied a Korean engineer detachment last spring.

In other developments: North Viet Nam has protested to the International Control Commission the building of Hawk missile sites at Saigon, Bien Hoa and Qui Nhon air bases in South Viet Nam, the New China News Agency reported today.

An informed source said Friday two Hawk anti-aircraft missile batteries are under construction at Bien Hoa Air Base. A U.S. military spokesman declined comment.

The Viet Cong reported today they "completely wiped out" the South Vietnamese 41st Commando Battalion in a battle near Dinh Thuy Village in Mo Cay District, Ben Tre Province, on Oct. 4.

The claim was broadcast by the New China News Agency and said the Viet Cong victory brought to 28 the number of government battalions annihilated this year.

Small Craft Came From U.S. Friday

Not Known Why Castro Encourages Refugees To Leave

HAVANA (AP) — Cuba says refugee boats will be allowed to return to the United States Sunday with any Cubans who wish to leave their homeland.

Cuban exiles piloted several small boats here from the United States Friday and the Foreign Ministry said they would be allowed to leave Sunday, taking any refugees with them.

The ministry arranged to take fishermen to Camarioca, the fishing port which Prime Minister Fidel Castro has designated as the refugee exit point.

It was from Camarioca, about 60 miles east of Havana on the north coast, that the first group of 15 left Thursday after two Florida men sailed there to pick up their Cuban relatives.

Four exiles reportedly took another 33 Cubans off the island early Friday. One exile claimed that Castro militiamen machine-gunned his boat and wounded him in the leg.

It was not known why Cuba was encouraging refugees to leave before the current negotiations with the United States on how to handle the exodus are concluded.

The Swiss Embassy charge d'affaires, Arthur Monnier, said he had handed a detailed U.S. proposal to the Cuban Foreign Ministry but received no immediate response. The Swiss have handled U.S. matters in Cuba since Washington broke relations with the Castro regime in 1961.

Cubans seeking information and visas are forming long lines each day outside the Havana building that once housed the U.S. Embassy. Swiss Embassy personnel use it now.

"It's fiesta time in Cuba after six years of mourning," said Austicio Valdes, 38, a circus trapeze artist who arrived in Miami, Fla., Friday with the first refugee group.

Another of the group, Ramon Rosales, 61, said: "If Castro allows the full exodus, he may be the U.S."

The U.S. State Department, seeking a safe and orderly exodus, urged exiles in Miami not to set out by boat to bring out more Cubans and asked them to wait until proper governmental arrangements are worked out.

Florida Gov. Haydon Burns said he had asked for federal action to encourage refugees to accept resettlement outside Florida. "This is a national responsibility," he said, "and these people should be accommodated the length and breadth of the country."

Up Early, Signs Bill

Johnson Termed As 'Feeling Fine'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, described as "feeling fine," was up before dawn today and quickly swung into official business—signing a bill sent him by Congress.

Johnson, who had a major, two-in-one abdominal operation less than 24 hours earlier, was up at 6 a.m. About 35 minutes later, he sat up in a chair to sign a bill extending the interest equalization tax—a measure designed to help ease the nation's balance of payments problem.

The bill-signing was witnessed by a news photographer who had been summoned minutes earlier to the third floor presidential suite at the Bethesda Naval Hospital in suburban Maryland.

Soon thereafter, the White House press office relayed this word from Johnson's longtime family physician: "Dr. James Cain reports that the President slept well, had a very restful night and is feeling fine."

The President pronounced himself in good shape. His doctors were willing to go along with that assessment. The White House said they were enthusiastic at the way their prominent patient was getting along —

Phillis Starts Appeal Action In Dismissal

Files For Hearing By Board Of State Civil Service Unit

LISBON — Russell V. Phillis, dismissed as superintendent of the County Home near here, filed an appeal Friday with the Personnel Review Board of the Ohio Civil Service Commission. No date has been set for a hearing.

Today, Phillis is acquainting his temporary successor, Lawrence J. Pike of 138 Hamilton Ln., East Palestine, with duties of the institution. Although Pike officially was to take over at midnight Friday, he arrived at the home at 8:30 this morning.

Pike was chosen by the commissioners to head the home until a permanent superintendent can be selected. His pay will be $340 per month.

Mrs. Phillis, matron of the home, said she and Phillis will remain at their residence on the home grounds "until the charges against my husband are proved."

Phillis was fired Tuesday in a letter from two of the county commissioners accusing him of "incompetency, inefficiency, drunkenness, neglect of duty, insubordination" and other acts while in office.

"I intend to fight it as far as I can," Phillis declared after receiving his dismissal notice.

Thursday, nearly 200 lined the main floor of the Courthouse here in an orderly demonstration protesting the dismissal and other policies of the county commissioners concerning the County Home.

Alliance Man Badly Hurt In County Crash

Auto Leaves Road, Rams Embankment In Homeworth Area

A 75-year-old Alliance man was injured seriously when his auto hit an embankment and overturned Friday at 12:50 p.m. on County Rd. 401, a mile and a half south of Route 172, in the Homeworth area.

The Lisbon State Highway Patrol said Dorsey Poto suffered possible skull injuries and abrasions of the head and right knee in the mishap. He was admitted to Alliance City Hospital and later transferred to Timken Hospital at Canton.

Officers said Poto went off the right side of the highway and lost control of his car. It then veered diagonally and went off the left side, ramming an embankment.

Forrest Parkey, 16, of Cleveland escaped injury in a similar accident Friday at 6 p.m. on County Rd. 411 almost a mile east of Route 172. He lost control on a sharp curve. The car skidded diagonally and went off the left side before rolling over, officers said.

Paul Welch Jr., 20, of New Waterford R. D. 1 was cited for speed in excess of road conditions after his car knocked down two newspaper boxes and hit a culvert Friday at 6:25 a.m. on County Rd. 422 almost two miles east of Columbiana.

The car went off the right side, hit the two boxes, crossed the driveway of a private home and then hit the culvert, officers reported.

London Talks Collapse

Rhodesia Might Cut British Ties

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia said today he believes his nation soon will declare itself independent from Britain—now that negotiations in London have collapsed.

"If we have to get out of our country," he told a news conference, "then we would rather go out fighting than crawling on our knees."

As Smith gave his version of this week's abortive talks in London, Commonwealth Secretary Arthur Bottomley told newsmen in Newcastle:

"I still hope that nothing will be done that will lead to the chaos and disorder that could arise from a unilateral declaration of independence."

A white minority governs Rhodesia. The British maintain that a declaration of independence by the Rhodesian government would amount to treason against the crown. The British also believe such a step could plunge a wide section of Africa into confusion and strife.

Talks between Smith and Prime Minister Harold Wilson collapsed Friday, with Smith insisting that Rhodesia become independent without further delay.

Wilson demanded that independence be held off until the white minority takes steps to ensure eventual rule by the colony's 3.9-million black African majority.

Smith, leader of the 250,000 white Rhodesians, seemed ready to defy Britain and declare independence unilaterally. "There is no alternative," he said in a broadcast beamed to Rhodesia. But some observers said he might avoid any immediate declaration of independence until he returns to Rhodesia and consults his Cabinet.

If Rhodesia breaks away, its Africans are expected to react violently, feeling they have lost their last hope of ever attaining majority rule. Observers also fear a violent reaction against whites elsewhere in Africa.

At the United Nations in New York, the United States warned it would join other nations in "concrete action" to oppose a Rhodesian breakaway. The United States has said it would not recognize a white government that took such a step.

New Zealand took a similar stand and said African leaders could play a key role in preventing an explosion by seeking a reconciliation of all factions in Rhodesia.

There has been talk in the United Nations of organizing a Congo-type international force aimed at installing a new regime in Rhodesia.

British sources said the government has made it clear to Smith it would not oppose U.N. action connected with Rhodesia.

Wilson warned Smith that Britain and other Commonwealth nations plan diplomatic and economic sanctions to isolate Rhodesia if it breaks away.

Brothers Get Prison Terms In Kidnaping

Monaca Pair Given 12 And 15 Years In Case Last June 24

CLEVELAND (AP) — Two brothers from Monaca, Pa., have been sentenced to federal prison for transporting a Rochester, Pa., man forcibly across the Ohio - Pennsylvania state line.

Edward James Icenhour, 32, convicted by a federal court July Sept. 23, was sentenced to 12 years Friday by U. S. District Judge Ben C. Green.

His brother, Elmer, 36, who pleaded guilty Aug. 13, was sentenced to 15 years.

The brothers were charged with kidnaping Owen Wilson Puffinberger, 22, in Rochester June 24 and forcing him at gunpoint to drive them to Alliance.

Puffinberger testified at Edward's trial that he was kidnapped when he stopped for a traffic light. He said he managed to escape after entering a tavern at Alliance with Elmer while Edward stayed in the car.

The Icenhour brothers were captured shortly after Puffinberger escaped.

Went Off Smoothly

Operation On President Lacked TV Doctor Drama

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Operation Johnson" went off so smoothly that producers of those dramatic television-doctor programs would have rejected the script for lack of action.

The only high drama was that it involved the President of the United States.

Enter the patient, shaved and showered, borne on a stretcher and propped up by two pillows. He is dressed in white linen and, despite the fact it's 6:15 a.m., he chats amiably with the doctors.

The surgeons are clad in green operating gowns, green masks.

The usual pre-operative tests and examinations are made. At 6:50 the patient is asleep from anesthesia. The incision is made at 7. Two hours and 15 minutes later, the operation is over — a proclaimed success.

One gall bladder with stone, and one ureteral stone have been removed.

"It was just another routine surgical case — except of course he's a very special person to us," said Peggy Susan Heimberger, a commander by rank and chief nurse of the Bethesda Naval Hospital operating section.

She was the only nurse present. It was supposed to be her day off.

The operating table was set square in the center of the room. In a glassed-in booth, an assistant cardiologist monitored equipment to keep a precise tab on the patient's heart waves.

What was said just before the chief surgeon, Dr. George A. Hallenback, made the incision? "He said, 'Scalpel,'" White House press secretary Bill D. Moyers said Hallenback told him.

Moyers observed with a smile later: "Men, in moments of high drama, seldom remember their heroic words."

The only departure from the script for the operation was the discovery of a ureteral stone.

However, doctors expected beforehand they might find a

42 Jap Fishermen Safe After Typhoon

AGANA, Guam (AP)—Forty-two Japanese fishermen were reported safe today in the wake of Typhoon Carmen but fear was expressed for 208 other fishermen and the 200 inhabitants of the remote Pacific island of Agrihan.

U.S. Air Force planes from Anderson AFB on Guam sighted four Japanese ships aground on tiny Agrihan, at the northern end of the Marianas near Guam.

Carmen's 190 mile - an - hour winds ripped the island in mid-week, destroying buildings and knocking out communication.

The Japanese Maritime Safety Agency reported 39 of the 40-member crew of the Benten Maru were rescued. Three from the 35-member crew of the Elsei Maru were also reported safe.

Liferafts and articles from missing ships were found in an extensive search by planes from Guam and 16 Japanese rescue boats.

The two indictments were among 14 returned by the September term of the grand jury.

FALL AND YOUR SEWAGE SYSTEM

Heavy fall rains bring many problems, not the least of which is the far-reaching damage to sewage systems.

Correctly designed septic tanks are constructed according to the daily flow of water and sewage, the gallonage capacity being at least equal to the amount entering in a 24-hour period. This is to allow for the solids to settle out so that digestion can take place in the bottom. An excess to the designed flow can be catastrophic to any system.

What happens then, when flooding occurs? Water-laden ground forces water into pipes, and through cracks in walls and covers of septic tanks... water pours through manhole covers and vents, creating an agitation which prevents settling. This increase in flow, therefore, carries large quantities of undigested materials to the drain-fields and cesspools... areas which are already straining to dispose of liquid become clogged with solids, and even less effective. Often such drainage areas overflow and become health hazards to both humans and livestock.

How Sea-Cal Enzymes Help:

Enzymes are not limited to working on solids that are settled — they travel where water will carry them — constantly breaking down proteins, fats, and starches, wherever they may be. Therefore in overloaded and flooded systems, Sea-Cal continues its work right into the wells, cesspools, and drain-fields — freeing the ground of pore-logging solids and keeping drainage at its peak.

After the floods have subsided, most systems have lost the nucleus of their digestion, which is the bacteria, and often take months to get started. Sea-Cal contains 80,000,000 anaerobic bacteria, and 60,000,000 aerobic bacteria, in each gram, and there being 28 grams to the ounce (with each bacteria reproducing itself many times a day), this means that a "seedling" with a few ounces of Sea-Cal will regenerate even the most dormant system.

Johnson

said the President gave some routine instructions to members of his staff but that there was no need for him to make any important decisions.

Moyers said Johnson would see more staff members today and "I imagine there'll be some bills signed." He said several of them, routine and minor, required action today.

Friday night, Moyers reported the President was fed through a vein, received a mild sedative and dropped off to sleep about 9:45. He said he thought Johnson was more comfortable than he had been during the afternoon, that the doctors thought things were par for the course and it was "going to be a smooth night."

Again, Mrs. Johnson spent the night in the third-floor presidential suite at the U.S. Naval Hospital in suburban Bethesda, Md. This time, daughter Lynda spent the night there, too, after flying in from Austin, Tex., where she attends the state university.

Daughter Luci was in and out, before and after classes at Georgetown University.

At the President's request, the Rev. George Davis of National City Christian church visited the hospital and was waiting when Johnson was wheeled back to his room following surgery.

Operation

uretal stone, Moyers said. This added about 15 minutes to the surgery.

How long was the incision for removal of the gall bladder?

"Just long enough," Moyers said, specifying nothing more than "of moderate length." The incision was in the upper abdomen.

Readings of the patient's heart beat, respiration, blood pressure were normal throughout, Moyers said.

Surgery was completed at 9:15 a. m. The President was "partially awake" shortly after 10 a. m. Moyers said he talked to him at 11 a. m. in the operation recovery room.

At 2 p. m. the patient stood by his bed with assistance and took a few steps. He did so again at 6:30 p. m.

Doctors estimate that in 10 to 14 days, the President may be able to leave the hospital.

Then like anybody else — well, almost like anybody else — the President can take care of the hospital bill.

Moyers explained the President has a choice of payment.

"As commander in chief, the President is entitled to hospital billing at the rate of $1.09 per day and his dependents at the rate of $1.75 a day," Moyers said at a briefing.

"That is the standard military rate here," Moyers said. "There is the alternative for him to pay the federal hospitalization rate for nonmilitary patients established by the Bureau of the Budget of $42 a day."

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—An Akron man was killed east of here when his car was slammed broadside by a car driven by a Louisville man later charged with failure to yield the right of way, driving while intoxicated and driving without an operator's license.

Ohio Highway Patrolmen identified the victim of Friday's accident as Robert Cole, 49.

His car was struck by one driven by Richard J. Schulte, 39, who police said drove through a stop sign, crossed the road and struck Cole's car which was eastbound Ohio 62.

Bank Messenger Victim In Canton Of $4,500 Theft

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — More than $4,500 was taken from a bank messenger as she left the office of the Equitable Life Insurance Co. of Washington, D. C., Friday.

The messenger, Miss Judy Ivans, was leaving the office in the Meyers Lake Plaza shopping center when the man tried to force her into his car, she said. He finally grabbed the bank bag and fled in a car bearing dealers licenses. She took the number, but police said the dealer had no idea what the car was used for.

The robber was described as about 50 years old, 5-10 and 175 pounds. He took $2,827 in checks and $1,687 in cash, bank officials said.

Early History Of City Traced For Lions Club

The early history of the city from its founding in the fall of 1798 to its incorporation as a village in 1834 was traced by Robert A. Kapp, city attorney and great-grandson of Thomas Fawcett, who laid out the original village, during Friday's Lions Club meeting at the Travelers Hotel.

An Irish quaker and a prosperous farmer in Charters Valley near Washington, Pa., Fawcett purchased land from Col. Isaac Craig of Pittsburgh, a Revolutionary War hero who had acquired 1,909 acres for $3,651. The land extended from Jethro to what now is Union St. and up the hill from the river.

Fawcett and his wife, parents of eight children, erected a house in the West End near Union St., Kapp related, and he decided to lay out a town called St. Clair in honor of the governor of the Northwest Territory.

The village he laid out extended from Market St. to the west side of what is now Union St. and from E. 4th St. to the river. Although named St. Clair, residents insisted on calling it "Fawcettstown" in honor of the founder.

Because he was an easy-going man, the village bid to be the county seat was defeated by one vote, Kapp continued.

Although only a small community, a big celebration was held on July 4, 1811, the 35th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence when William Orwell, the first attorney here, read the document and a company of militia in charge of John Wilcox staged a drill. Some 4,000 attended.

In 1816, John Fawcett, third son of the founder who had gone to Washington, Pa., to work, returned here with two other men, purchased 200 acres at the foot of Lisbon St. and planned a town which they were going to call "Liverpool".

Because of the confusion with a Liverpool in Medina County, East was attached to the village's name. Why they decided on the name Liverpool never has been decided, the attorney said, explaining potteries weren't established for two more decades.

The town declined badly and by 1823 was "just a horse town; not horse and buggy," Kapp said. In 1826, there were "only six families and two bachelors." The town started to grow and was incorporated as a village in 1834.

Kapp was introduced by Merl McSwegin, program chairman. Donald T. Duke, president, presided.

Various Auto Mishaps Investigated By Police

An East Liverpool youth was treated for a hip injury early Friday night after his motorcycle reportedly struck a car on Washington St. near E. 6th St.

Jerry Crabtree, son of Carl Crabtree, 209 Ravine St., was treated for a laceration of the hip in the mishap at 6 p. m. Police said they had no report of the accident.

Three other accidents last night and early today also were reported by police.

Two autos were damaged along with a hedge at the home of Mrs. Ruth Connor, 2700 St. Clair Ave., in a mishap at 1:03 a. m. today at St. Clair Ave. and Armstrong Ln.

The collision involved northbound autos operated by Harry E. Gibbs, 43, of Curry St. and Clarence C. Dick, 44, of Bloomfield, police said.

Dick told officers he passed Gibbs, who was headed north at about 30 miles an hour. The Bloomfield man said Gibbs refused to lower his headlight beam, although he signaled by blinking his taillights.

Dick said he hit the brake light once and Gibbs then went around but cut back in too soon and scraped the left side of Dick's 1962 sedan and forced him off the right side of the road into the hedge.

Police said Gibbs admitted he cut back too quickly and hit Dick.

A rear-end collision on Harvey Ave. near Myrtle St. at 3:05 p. m. yesterday involved cars driven by James T. Lessel, 52, of 914 Princeton St. and Walter Leo Hanlon, 40, of 911 May St. Lessel said he halted in the line of traffic and Hanlon said he did not see the halted car before it was too late to stop.

A similar crash at 3:15 p. m. at Pennsylvania and Wedgewood Aves. was blamed on a dog crossing the street.

Charles W. Martin, 54, of 219 Jackson St. said he halted to avoid striking the dog that ran in front of his car.

Mansfield Hampton, 41, of 1182 Pennsylvania Ave. said he attempted to stop, but slid into the rear of the Martin auto.

A report of a collision Thursday night at the same intersection in which an East End woman was hurt was given to police at 6 p. m. yesterday by the two drivers involved.

The crash involved westbound

USW Slates Byers Strike

BEAVER — The United Steelworkers Union has advised the A. M. Byers Co., wrought iron pipe manufacturer with plants at Ambridge and Pittsburgh, that workers will strike Sunday at midnight over failure to reach agreement on new contract terms.

The firm Friday issued a statement declaring the union was attempting to force the firm to accept the same economic terms as the agreement with "Big Steel," and said Byers could not do so.

More than 10,000 employees of the Blaw-Knox Co., the Cyclops Steel Corp. and the Jessop Steel Corp. in western Pennsylvania plants have been idle since Thursday because of contract disputes.

The "Big Steel" agreement is estimated to cost 47.3 cents an hour, the biggest steel wage agreement in a decade, providing for pay boosts, retirement after 30 years of service with $150 a month pension.

4 Injured, 7 Arrested In School Fights

CHICAGO (AP) — Fights involving white and Negro students at Austin High School Friday ended with four youths injured, and seven others arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

Fifty policemen were called to quell the fighting that left the cafeteria of the West Side school covered with broken glass. The fighting began on the street during the noon lunch hour, moved to the school corridors and wound up in a bottle-throwing brawl in the lunchroom.

The specific cause of the fighting still was not known.

In addition to the seven white youths charged with disorderly conduct, three juveniles, one of them a Negro, were taken to a juvenile home. Five other juveniles were released to their parents.

An undetermined number of the 3,000 students at the school quit classes after the fights but classes were not dismissed until the regular time, school officials said.

ONE-OF-A-KIND ROOM

The key word in creating a one-of-a-kind room is selectivity. It is a relatively simple matter to follow the vogue of the moment — to have what's popular. But for that touch of magic that gives your room a unique and personal quality, makes it an expression of your individual taste and personality, every piece of furniture and accessory has to be chosen with the utmost care.

The family room sketched above shows painstaking planning and an unerring sense of purpose. The Danish Modern furniture has flair without frills. The background was planned to emphasize the furnishings. Walls have been painted a pale citron color. The carpet, a shade deeper than the walls, unifies the family room with the adjoining room (not shown).

Window treatment has been kept simple with crisp white curtains that cover only one-quarter of the windows. Draperies, the same color as the walls, may be drawn at night. The bookshelf unit with commodious drawers and cabinet beneath is simple with just a hint of sophistication. Sofa and chairs, upholstered in smart, durable, nubby fabric are easily wiped off with a damp cloth.

Every piece of furniture in this room has been selected for beauty and function to create this one-of-a-kind setting.

You will find it a simple matter to plan and furnish a one-of-a-kind room when you see our new collection of fine furnishings. Beautifully designed pieces for every room in your home. High quality, tasteful styling at moderate prices. Come in soon.

Don't Blame The People

Pope Paul VI gave the American people a heady sample of spiritual leadership during his visit to the United Nations.

He was an articulate and powerful reminder of something easily forgotten—that the influence of the Bishop of Rome—the Pope—is unparalleled in the modern world.

But listening to his impassioned pleas for peace among men, for the laying down of weapons of aggression, for mutual trust and release from the bondage of fear and the crushing burden of armaments, even his most trusting followers might wonder why Pope Paul addressed the people, instead of their temporal leaders.

Their wonderment is like that in other situations when skilled people who put into words what needs to be said address themselves to the wrong audience.

The easy assumption is that they are hoping to reach the people and thereby to influence the people's leaders. There is no evidence that it works this way.

THAT WOULD BE like blaming the people for the egregious blunders of their leadership. Thus, the people were blamed for Pearl Harbor and the missile lag, for the Russian leadership in space exploration and American's inferior performance in scientific education.

The people cannot enforce their will for peace. There is no evidence anywhere on earth of popular demand for war, least of all in places where war is being waged.

There is no evidence anywhere on earth of basic ill will among the masses of mankind.

There is abundant evidence, on the other hand, that the ordinary run of human beings aspire to live at peace with one another; that they having nothing but good will for their fellow men.

It is not the people who entertain the dangerous aspirations that bring governments into head-on collisions and breed fears and jealousies. It is an infinitesimally small minority of men who in one way or another have established authority over the people.

POLICIES flow down from the top, not up from the bottom.

Pope Paul VI and all others who urge and encourage the people to think and do better, to eschew violence and suppress hatred, are to be respected. Their good counsel is to be followed.

But it is not to be imagined that peace will come from the feelings of the people—not as long as war comes from the machinations of government leaders.

Limits On Municipal Growth

Surely the happiest moment in New York City this October was the patter of rain in the streets and the knowledge it was raining in the Catskills, too.

With a break in the New York Metropolitan area's recent bad luck as far as rainfall is concerned, politicians can quit yammering about who caused the drought of the last few years and argue about something more sensible.

Reservoirs will fill up. The project to tap the Hudson River upstream will be completed. New York City can file and forget for the umpteenth time all the compelling reasons for installing water meters, instead of letting householders waste water as if it were going out of style.

Water almost did go out of style for New Yorkers this summer. Even if it rained from now until the start of another "long hot summer," there still would be a water shortage. A momentous doubt has shadowed the minds of thoughtful residents of the country's largest city.

Is the water shortage going to be permanent? Has New York been allowed to grow so big it cannot satisfy its insatiable thirst?

In a broader sense, shouldn't there be a limit on population growth imposed by the available water supply? Does it make sense to permit desert cities like Phoenix, Ariz., Los Angeles, Calif., and other densely populated areas even in desert country to grow as if they had unlimited water supplies?

All they have in reality is the hope that the federal government will come to their rescue with public funds, to build enormously costly water-supply systems for them with other people's money.

There are natural limits of growth in congested areas. One of the limits is related to water supply. Should New York City keep on growing as if every year's rainfall was going to be maximum, when in all probability only one year of every four or five will bring enough water to quench the city's thirst?

The Filibuster Of Sen. Dirksen

We have made it plain on many occasions that we believe Section 14B of the Labor-Management Law (Taft-Hartley Act) should be retained. But we cannot approve the filibuster that Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., is conducting to keep the U.S. Senate from voting on the issue.

A filibuster is just as reprehensible when conducted for one cause as it is when conducted for another cause.

It is a legislative gimmick to thwart the known will of a majority from being expressed in a definitive vote.

The explanation always used by the filibusterers is that they are carrying on a discussion. This is spurious. There is no discussion, only a dreary recital ad nauseam of assorted information to keep the U.S. Senate chamber full of sound—to maintain a pretense of debate—to stall for time.

When this has been done by irreconcilable Southerners with the aim of stopping civil rights legislation, it has brought down on the tricksters the deserved wrath of the press. When it is done by men like Sen. Dirksen and his friends to stop a proposal to repeal Section 14B of the Labor-Management Law, it is just as offensive.

Section 14B should be retained because it lets the separate states decide what they want to do with the issue of compulsory unionism. Ohio decided in 1958 it would not outlaw compulsory unionism. We disagreed with the state's decision but agreed it was made in the right way. A vote decided the outcome.

We agree with Sen. Dirksen that Section 14B should be retained in the federal law but believe a filibuster is the wrong way to proceed in the Senate.

Divided Opinion

Higher education could give itself a stratospheric boost with a debate between Joseph Katz, who directs Stanford University's student development study, and a panel of conservative critics.

The Stanford administrator deplors the fact too many students are conformist and docile. Conservative critics deplore the fact too many students are delving into matters that shouldn't concern students—demanding answers that aren't forthcoming—talking about things formerly not discussed in public—seeking knowledge in places once barred to youth.

One faction in education wants students to pursue intellectualism, which teaches that human reason is the ultimate principle of realism.

The other faction winces whenever students stray from the paths of traditionalism, which teaches that the easiest and shortest path to success is to become adjusted to everything that is, accepting it at face value and never kicking over the traces.

One faction holds that the mind is capable of infinite development, once it is trained in free inquiry.

The other faction holds that the student mind is a warehouse to be filled with static precepts which thereafter can be taken out of storage for use as needed and nothing should be stored therein which has not been approved by the senior generation.

One faction argues that the ultimate and highest value of education is to keep people in a docile mood by providing them with everything they need to know.

The other faction believes education performs at its best by jarring people out of docility by making them curious about everything they don't know.

This argument has been going on for centuries and won't be settled in the near future, but Professor Katz, who has blasted traditionalism before the American Council on Education, would be just the one to tangle with traditionalism's defenders.

Season To Be Snug

If we had to explain it to a Californian, Floridian, or an outdoors nut from Pango-Pango, we'd go about it like this:

Up here in the North Temperate Zone, where women are women and sometimes midwinter snow piles up belly-high on a 10-foot Indian, man puts high value on comfort.

He learns from the furred animals that know how to survive in cold weather by snuggling down in a cozy hideaway and staying there until things brighten up—like the ground-hogs.

A man's season to be snug starts after the Big Hush, which starts when the birds go south. It lasts until he takes off his gloves in the spring, or until the radiator of his car boils over in a traffic jam, whichever comes first.

He puts on more clothing until he is wearing a heavy coat, overshoes, fuzzy socks and a wind-resistant headpiece. He finds his ear muffs and fur-lined gloves, also the knitted vest he hasn't worn since the end of last winter.

He checks the radiator solution, looks at the furnace filters, piles up books on the bedside table for sleepy-by reading, puts in the storm windows and buys a new thermometer to keep track of the outside temperature.

He looks over the weather-stripping on the doors, makes storm doors ship-shape, greases the bearings on the snow-blower and reminds himself to buy a new snow shovel for auxiliary snow removal.

He finds the ice scraper and the goop for the windshield.

He moves his favorite chair under a better light, lays down ground rules for evening television, remembers to have his handsaw sharpened, buys new wood chisels and announces he is thinking about taking up furniture repair.

He inspects the wiring on his electric blanket and recommends that the setting be stabilized on No. 5 unless he orders otherwise. He finds his snuggly slippers in a corner of the clothes closet and his woolly muffler in a corner of the hall closet.

And all the time he is slowing down his metabolism. He is relaxing — getting ready to go limp during blizzards and storms, when it behooves a man in his senses to make himself comfortable because nothing else is worth the effort.

Move over, groundhog, and let somebody get in there beside you who knows how to enjoy winter.

Gala Dinners Aid Jimmy Hoffa

By Victor Riesel

Jimmy Hoffa, now having his decade in court, is about to come into money. Big money. Tax-free money. About half a million dollars worth of money.

Special committees to honor him have been set up across the land by his friends—mostly Teamsters' officials. These will be considerable honors since they'll come in lump sums of $75,000 to $125,000 a homage.

Since I have not been asked to join any such committee, I rush to make the matter public, not out of chagrin, but out of sheer amazement at the audacity of the operation.

Big banquet halls have been reserved across the country. In New York City, it's the 2,000-seat ballroom of the Americana Hotel on Oct. 22.

Individual labor leaders, officials and union employees are being solicited to purchase tickets at $100 apiece. Some are being asked to buy a 10- or 12-seat table. Each must pay for his own tickets. The money must not come out of the union or company treasuries.

THOSE PURCHASING the tickets for the banquet are warned their outlays are not tax deductible. Therefore, the entire national operation is aimed at getting thousands of labor and businessmen to contribute $100—or more—personally to Jimmy Hoffa personally.

There are, of course, some expenses. A charitable estimate is that the actual dinner and routine fund raising costs, including printing, will run to $25 a ticket. Thus the net will be at least $75 apiece. It is believed that the "James R. Hoffa Testimonial Dinner Committee" at the Americana Hotel will pull in some 1,500 persons.

Thus the net would run to more than $112,000 on this soiree alone.

And what will they do with the funds? The answer is in the solicitation letter dispatched on Sept. 15 to thousands of Eastern Region "friends" of Hoffa.

"It will be our pleasure to present the net proceeds of the dinner to Brother Hoffa in token of our appreciation of his devoted service to Teamsters and to the labor movement as a whole.

The Family Boom

By Ken McKenna

The American family, growing in size, education and affluence and constantly changing its pattern of spending, has altered the economy beyond recognition since World War II.

Real family spending jumped 15 per cent since 1950, according to a National Industrial Conference Board study. Combined with population growth, this adds up to a 40 per cent rise in real consumer demand.

"In the course of the 1950s, the nation went through a more extensive transformation than in any other comparable time span in its peace-time history," the NICB commented. "Rarely before was so much altered so quickly."

The study, based on information collected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics from 12,000 households, represents a cross section of the nation's non-farm population. It was sponsored by Life magazine and claims to be the most comprehensive survey of consumer buying habits ever assembled.

THE NICB isolated as a major economic factor and the growing middle and upper-income groups, whose buying is rising rapidly.

In the early 1950s only a third of America's purchasing power was controlled by households earning $7,500 or more. Now, this income group accounts for more than half of all purchases and is growing.

Comparisons were made in constant dollar, with the effect of price changes removed so that growth is shown in real terms.

H. Bruce Palmer, NICB president, said: "On all counts, today's typical consumer is appreciably more sophisticated than before — he has more money, more schooling and is more discriminating in his purchases."

In effect, our mass market has become a class market today.

The study pointed out the remarkable fact that the United States experienced one of its most spectacular birth rate increases at a time when the population of women in the most prolific age group (20-29) declined. By 1960, more families had children, and more of them.

"The baby boom and rising income triga whole. We shall count on seeing you at the dinner, and we promise a wonderful evening to one and all."

AND WHO ARE "WE"? They are a committee headed by Thomas E. Flynn, director of the Eastern Conference of Teamsters. Insiders expect him to become the International Brotherhood of Teamsters' next treasurer—should Mr. Hoffa go to prison this fall.

There are other honest men on the committee, made up of Teamsters from the New York and New Jersey Joint Councils. They are anti-Hoffa men, and I won't add to their discomfort by naming them. They must be unhappy enough just to be committeemen along with that stalwart contributor to charities (mostly himself), Anthony (Pro) Provenzano.

"Tony Pro," Jersey's No. 1 Teamster, who holds many a title among the brotherhood's nobility, is a convicted extortioner at the moment. He has been sentenced to seven years in the federal penitentiary for extorting more than $8,000 from a trucking firm in exchange for labor peace.

But "Pro" always is a social contribution to such galas. Invariably, now looking much like a slimmed-down Victor Mature, he comes to these celebrations in a 25-dollar frilly, black-tie shirt and a long cigarette holder. To his previous honors has been added the co-chairmanship of the dinner.

ALSO ON THE COMMITTEE is Brother Crapanzano. He is quite a Teamsters' wheel. But he'll have one minor logistic problem getting to the early drinking at the reception. He'll have to rush to dress since he is scheduled to be in New York Federal Court standing trial on charges of violating a section of the Taft-Hartley law some 206 times.

But they will all "enjoy," as the boys say. Especially Jim Hoffa—for this is but one of the dinners of honor at which he will be burdened with money.

Unlike David Copperfield (positively not a business agent), Jimmy Hoffa will eat everything at the banquet except "humble pie." He never will learn to eat that with an appetite. That may be his strength.

Or, his fatal weakness.

gered a grand exodus from the city to the suburbs, a movement which dwarfed in magnitude the great American westward migration of the country's frontier era," the NICB said.

DURING THE RISE in population of the central cities the increase was a fifth but was outpaced by a four-fifths gain in the suburban fringes. More than 60 per cent of non-farm households now own their homes, compared with 50 per cent 10 years ago.

Another development was the determined entrance of women into the labor market. Of the 7.5 million persons who took their first jobs between 1950 and 1960, nearly two-thirds were women. In those 10 years male employment rose 6 per cent while female employment jumped 24 per cent.

Interestingly, this phenomena occurred in one of the most prosperous periods in the country's history.

The NICB observed: "More schooling appears to have made the modern women less patient with the monotony of housekeeping and more eager to assume work responsibilities outside the home. Figures indicate that the more extensive a woman's education, the more probable it is that she is holding down a job."

An extensive shift also has taken place in the entire occupation mix. White collar jobs are in.

THE NUMBER of production workers in manufacturing during the 1950s remained almost unchanged, but the number of non-production workers expanded more than 50 per cent.

The latter now account for a quarter of the workforce.

Despite current concern with the school drop out problem, the study indicated, the general level of educational attainment rose impressively.

Among persons 65 and over barely 10 per cent attended college. But among today's adults aged 25 to 34 the proportion is 25 per cent.

Political Power

By David Lawrence

U.S. Role In Education Hit

A crisis in education in America has emerged. It involves this fundamental issue: shall schools and colleges and other educational institutions be controlled by the federal government and by the political party in power, or shall they be free from such interference?

A tragic example of federal intrusion has just occurred — not in the South but in a Northern city, the metropolis of Chicago. The U.S. commissioner of education, Francis Keppel, is an able man, but he is under the discipline of a system whereby, in order to David Lawrence eliminate alleged racial discrimination, the party in power has assumed the right to use federal funds to direct states, cities and counties as to how they shall operate their schools.

If the federal government can dictate to local school superintendents how they shall arrange their school districts, it can also tell them what to teach in the schools and what to suppress.

EVEN MORE SENSATIONAL is the way the commissioner of education, who had ordered $30 million of federal funds withheld from Chicago schools, was directed by the White House to release the money, after Mayor Richard Daley, the political boss of Cook County, Illinois, telephoned President Johnson.

Naturally, there was a report that the Chicago school authorities made some concessions but the city's superintendent of schools, Benjamin Willis, was not consulted by the president of the board of education before the face-saving formula was accepted. The civil rights group which had originally sought to have federal funds withheld from Chicago schools complained that the release of the money was the result of "a shameful display of naked political power."

What happened is not surprising. It long has been predicted that the vague phrases of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which fail to set up legislative standards for governmental commissions to follow and does not provide adequate means of redress for local governments, would soon bring a climax in the controversy over who shall control education in America.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE declares editorially:

"The next step is up to Congress, if it wishes to spare other cities from arbitrary and capricious acts of the federal office of education. . . .

"Federal control of education is here," Ren. Michel, R-Ill., told the House. "The foot is in the door and from here on we can expect the door to open wider toward federal control. One of these years we may wake up and see the only school board member is Uncle Sam, with a federal check."

"Less than a month after this warning, the Office of Education tried to crack down on Chicago. The effort failed only because the mayor of Chicago happens to be a powerful Democratic politician and because of the strenuous protests of Supt. Willis and this newspaper. Other communities without a strong voice at the White House will be helpless. If they want money from Washington, they will have to obey every command of the Office of Education."

MANY MEMBERS of Congress are disturbed by what has occurred. Sen. Everett Dirksen, the minority leader of the Senate, happens to come from Illinois. He said he would ask the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee to "take a look into the matter" immediately. He said: "We are going to get to the bottom of this."

Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., together with Rep. Abraham H. Quie, R-Minn., at a press conference held for education writers this week, expressed bipartisan concern. Mrs. Green said she had noted "a couple of warning signs that we need to be alert, to be sure we do not have federal control." Mr. Quie said federal involvement in education was a possibility against which members of Congress should be on guard.

THE WHOLE UPROAR is not surprising. When the federal government can at will withhold funds from a state or local government and command it to do its wishes, at that moment constitutional rights disappear and the power of the federal purse becomes a form of legalized blackmail.

Congressional investigations are being urged. Certainly an explanation is needed as to why hearings were not held and specific complaints submitted by the U.S. commissioner of education to the Chicago Board of Education before taking action to withhold funds.

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Grade crossings over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks on 1st St. in Chester were to be eliminated under a program approved by the West Virginia State Road Commission.

Review readers scanned headlines announcing that the highest court in New Jersey—the Court of Errors and Appeals — had upheld the death sentence of Bruno Richard Hauptmann in the kidnap-murder of Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — A local man went one better than the likeable "drunk" on the Andy Griffith television show when he hired a cab to transport him to City Hall so he could have a night's lodging undisturbed. He told police he didn't feel like walking.

TEN YEARS AGO — Rep. Wayne L. Hays, Democrat of the 18th Ohio Congressional District, was one of nine legislators who visited the Kremlin in Moscow during a tour of Russia.

Chester Krider of Salem was elected chief de gare of Columbiana County Volture 273 of the 40 & 8 Society during a meeting in Glenmoor.

We Want A Touchdown!

Area's Cheerleaders Add Color, Spirit To Excitement Of Football Competition

"Go, Team, Go!"

The shrieked chant begins, and in seconds, thousands of voices are echoing across the gridiron, a frenzied call to duty, a spur to the cup of victory.

Whirling, leaping, bounding back and forth along the sidelines with shouts of glee or screams of despair, the Tri-State Area's cheerleaders help spark the excitement which makes football the top outdoor sport spectacle.

THE GIRLS ARE all trim-figured, bright-faced and happy, whose exuberance is channeled into patterns of vocal urgings and agitated acrobatics—the result of long hours of practice in special techniques taught by experts.

Selected for their roles after school tryouts, the varsity cheerleaders at many schools begin as early as June for the autumn turf season.

Some of them attend special seminars at Cincinnati or elsewhere to learn the basic cheers and accompanying movements.

As fall approaches, the practice sessions are intensified, and the rhythm and synchronization polished to a fine degree.

THE PEP RALLIES start at student assemblies, and finally the season is under way.

As the spectators jam into the bleachers, the resounding cheers flow across the field, the concentrated voice of the crowd, led and shaped by four or five shapely ones in brilliant skirts and sweaters, pompons or pennants or megaphones swinging in wild gyration.

"Go, Team, Go."

On the sidelines for South Side are, front, Joan Stewart and Rose Marie Andrews and Jean Swearingen, Linda Verzella, Karen Walker and Ramona McDonald.

The Beavers fight harder when Debbie Croxall, Janie Cunningham and Chris Humphrey, front, and Linda Gilbert and Linda Fisher lead the cheering.

On the Crestview varsity squad are Kathy Tucker and Hazel Graham, kneeling, and Sally Lindsay, Carol Enterline and Candy Colella.

Oak Glen's Golden Bear is surrounded by Pam Ferguson, Trudy Allison, Patty Brewer, Cherry Smith and Jodie Thornberry.

Lisbon High School's cheerleaders are Cindy Serago, Patty Snowberger, Beverly Webber, Nancy Kauffman and Mike Monda.

Leading the Midland Leopards' cheers are Penny Bradshaw, Christine Orlando, Teresa Lona, Paula Francis, Mary Ellen Bruno and Leyetta Wilson, standing.

Petting the Bulldog Mascot at East Palestine are Frances Wilson, Diane Madden, Donna Parker and Jil Wilhelm.

Vicki Tolson, Pamela Barker, Kay Sevek, Sandy Elverd and Barbara Utt make up the cheering squad at Stanton Local.

Instead of storing that camping gear away for winter, why don't you use it to do a little exploring in the Tri-State area?

For some reason, which really doesn't make sense to me, most people think the vacation period is over when September rolls around.

I feel you are missing one of the most pleasant times of the year if you don't take advantage of September and October.

Mild weather generally prevails. The days are mellow and warm while the evenings are cool and crisp.

Maybe you already have had your two or three weeks vacation. And I'll concede that if you have children who usually accompany you on trips, fall is not the "prime" time for vacationing.

However, the weekends can be utilized to enjoy short jaunts and discover what the local area has to offer.

SOMETIMES THESE SHORTER trips prove more interesting and enjoyable than the ones in which hundreds of miles are traveled. The short trip also can be much cheaper.

It's surprising how many area residents are not aware of what they have in their own "backyards." People travel for long hours to see the sights or enjoy the outdoors in other parts of the country when they never have visited some of the parks and recreation areas in the district.

So instead of putting your gear in the garage or basement, take advantage of all the equipment you have paid good money for.

Many purchase tents, camping trailers and other items but, only use them one or two weeks during the summer. Comparing the capital outlay with the use, you are not getting full value from your equipment and this makes camping a very expensive proposition, which it doesn't have to be.

OHIO, PENNSYLVANIA and West Virginia have much to offer those who are interested in camping, hunting and fishing.

If you want to visit another state and do not want to buy a hunting or fishing license, there still is much that can be done.

Hikes and nature walks in the afternoons are pleasant. And what could be more enjoyable than sitting around a blazing campfire on a brisk fall evening, swapping stories, having a hot cup of coffee and planning for other days.

Mosquitoes and other insects are just about gone. There are very few tourists who do travel or camp at this time of the year, so you have lots of room all to yourself.

The foliage is beautiful in the fall. If you don't hunt, take your camera along and do a little of the kind of "shooting" that doesn't require a license.

If you are a hunter or a fisherman, you can take the opportunity to discover new stomping grounds. Use the camp site as a point for taking short drives, maybe even stopping to ask area farmers about using their grounds for hunting.

IF YOU DO LIKE TO wet a line or shoot meat for the table, many of the area parks have areas set aside for this.

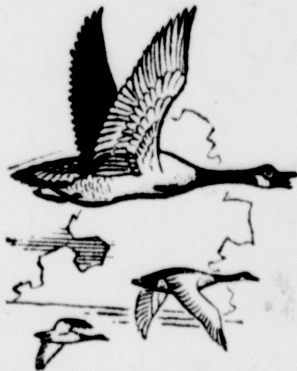

It's surprising how many people don't realize what wonderful outdoor recreational facilities are provided for them in their own area.

Many people have never visited Beaver Creek State Park off Route 30, Raccoon Creek State Park in Beaver County off Route 18, Tomlinson Run State Park in Hancock County off Route 2 or Guilford Lake near Lisbon.

I hiked to the camping area at Beaver Creek State Park this summer while on a picnic. There are several campers, but not one from this area. Many were from out of state. They had read of the park and its facilities in various brochures and travel guides, and they were very pleased with the accommodations and the beautiful scenery.

All camp sites in Ohio's 32 state parks are open until the third Sunday of October. Only seven of these are closed after this date, because of a freezing problem with water systems. None are in this immediate area. All the others are on a year-around basis.

A 24-PAGE, POCKET-SIZE guide on field identification of ducks, entitled "Ducks At A Distance," has been prepared by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and is being made available by the Ohio Division of Wildlife.

Single copies of the booklet can be obtained free from Division of Wildlife District offices: 1500 Dublin Rd., Columbus, 43212; 952 Lima Ave., Findlay, 45840; 912 Portage Lakes Drive, Firestone Park Station, Akron, 44301; 360 East State St., Athens, 45701, and Route No. 3, Xenia, 45385.

SQUIRREL SEASON will open next Saturday in West Virginia and Pennsylvania. In West Virginia the season is for gray, black, albino and fox squirrel. The season is open through Jan. 1, 1966, with the limit six per day and a possession limit of 12 after the second day.

The season on ruffed grouse also opens next Saturday and runs through Jan. 29, with a limit of four per day and a possession limit of eight.

In Pennsylvania the season runs through Nov. 27 and then will be open again from Dec. 27 through Jan. 1. The same holds true for ruffed grouse. The daily limit of squirrels is six, with a season limit of 30. The daily limit of grouse is two, with not more than ten in the combined seasons.

A TOTAL OF 15,909 resident hunting licenses were sold in Beaver County, according to the final report for the 1964-65 license year which ended Aug. 31. This is an increase of almost 900 from the 15,011 recorded for the 1963-64 reporting period.

There were 461 non-resident licenses sold, compared to 379 for the previous year.

According to the Pennsylvania Game Commission, total resident license sales jumped 54,000 and non-resident sales were up 7,000, which indicates there are good hunting opportunities in the Keystone State.

Pat, a senior, has been active throughout her high school career. This year she is also a member of the Latin Club.

Last year, she belonged to the Latin, French, Science and Dramatics Clubs, worked on the school publication, and maintained a high academic standing.

After graduation, she plans to attend Edinboro State College where she'll study to be a guidance counselor.

Save that elastic from men's wornout suspenders and make straps for your mattress cover. From one pair, you can put two handles on each side. These handholds make the turning of the mattress an easier task.

It's best when doing your housework to do it at an even pace. If one charges into the work at top speed, she may not get through the program because she gets tired. Working at an even pace takes less energy.

Rebecca Craik, 17-year-old Midland contestant in the Beaver County Junior Miss competition, relaxes with "Cotton," the family's pet poodle, as she awaits the event tonight at Beaver.

Becky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Craik of 981 Midland Ave., is among 22 girls in the contest, the winner to be selected on the basis of personality, academic achievement, personality, talent, poise and grace.

A senior at Midland's Lincoln High School, Becky was entered in the contest by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson, of Beaver, whom she met last summer while working at Rochester General Hospital.

An active student, Miss Craik is secretary of the Christian Youth Fellowship, junior post worthy advisor of Rainbow Girls, member of the choir at the First Methodist Church, member of the National Honor Society, member of the organ class, secretary-treasurer of A Capella Choir, secretary - treasurer of the senior class and vice president of her homeroom. She also reads morning devotions at the high school.

During the contest tonight, the girls will be judged on a physical fitness test, appearance in formal dress and talent.

For the talent show, Miss Craik will wear a burlap sack, recite a poem which she wrote as a prelude to her vocal number and sing "I Enjoy Being a Girl." The poem explains the reason for her wearing the burlap sack.

The Lighter Side

Here's a prediction that goes against the grain of all the forecasts made by high-powered financiers and double-domed bureaucrats for the last 20 years:

Sometime in the next generation, railroad passenger business will come back into its own in a big way and it will be commonplace again for travelers to take to the rails for trips of 1,000 miles or more.

It won't come about automatically or because of any initial positive action on the part of the railroads, rather it will develop in spite of management.

The glut of traffic on America's highways already has reached a point that no one takes to the road simply for the pleasure of driving. Back in the 1920's when the auto still was a luxury, it was commonly referred to as a "pleasure car." That expression went out the window about the time the first Freeway and Turnpike were built.

WHEN AUTOMOBILE TRAFFIC builds to the point that cars are bumper to bumper even in the wide open spaces of the west, the prudent will leave the family gas-burner in the garage and hike off to the railway station again when a major trip looms.

As long as Detroit continues to turn out cars much more rapidly than the rest of the U.S. can find time to wreck 'em, junk 'em or provide places to park 'em the saturation point is bound to arrive as surely as a mathematical equation works out to a logical solution.

Highways east of the Mississippi have been jammed uncomfortably for 20 years and crowded beyond the bounds of reason for at least five years.

Time was when a tourist could tool along a U.S. route in Kansas or Colorado and see another car only occasionally. But that era started to fade at the end of World War II and now it's only a memory.

Autos have multiplied like flies in an ideal environment; families have more money and leisure time than ever before; trailers and camping sites have helped hold down the cost of a long journey.

AS A RESULT, MILLIONS are on the highway every vacation season. Even the vast national parks in the west are so crowded that one has to stand in line to shake hands with a bear.

Ah, but the airlines?

Certainly the airlines will siphon off some of the business as more and more travelers shun the so-called open road. But if all the airlines in the U.S. kept all their planes in the air without a break from Memorial Day to Labor Day, they could not carry 10 per cent of the horde that rushes from one coast to another.

Rail passengers travel has picked up to a slight degree in the last few years during the vacation rush. More and more travel agencies are running conducted tours that use railway cars exclusively.

But when the average traveler rediscovers the serenity and comfort of traveling in first-class railway accommodations, the day of the venerable common carrier will dawn again.

The passengers cars of some eastern railroads, of course seem to date back to Civil War Days,

Their schedules and their service are designed more to frustrate and antagonize the traveler than to accommodate him.

But the plush streamliners still roll west out of Chicago to the Pacific Northwest and California, cradling the traveler in comfort and convenience he'll never find among the hordes on the highways.

THERE'S NO NEED to eat in the ptomaine traps that line the roads, lading out unpalatable food to grimy travelers at outrageous prices. A lower berth in a Pullman still beats the sagging mattress and weary springs in a second-rate motel.

And instead of staring all day at a hypnotizing highway center line, the traveler can take in the scenery, read, sleep or get gently sloshed in the club car, if he wishes.

Best of all, he arrives at his destination well-rested, bathed, shaved and wearing a presentable suit, while his counterpart who travels by highway looks as though he is made up for the 1965 version of "Grapes of Wrath."

Yes, passenger trains will come back into their own, as inevitably as the faded almost to oblivion in the years when highway travel was fun.

All aboard . . .

You And The Law

Adam and Alice had been married for a number of years and had several children. One day, however, Adam met Olive and decided the grass looked greener on the other side of town. Adam subsequently divorced Alice and married Olive.

Alice was upset about the matter and so were Adam's children. One of the children, Adam Jr., decided to file suit against Olive for "alienation of affections."

"After all, that woman enticed my father away from his family, depriving me of his affection," lamented the boy.

DOES ADAM JR. have any legal basis on which to sue

Olive, the third party, for alienation of affections in a case such as this?

Generally, under Ohio law, the answer is "no." A recent ruling by the Supreme Court of Ohio found that a child really is not part of the marriage agreement and, therefore, cannot claim such action in divorce matters.

While a child may expect that a parent will have affection for him, this is only a moral obligation, not a legal one. The sole legal obligation imposed on the parent is that of support.

THE CASE in point involves what is termed the "right of consortium," based upon the original marriage contract between husband and wife. The court said that no such contract exists between the parent and a child.

"Therefore," the court said, "there is no legal right in a child to maintain such an action for alienation of affections since that course of action is based upon the right of consortium."

"The basis for this cause of action against an enticer who had disrupted the family must rest upon the marital contract. A spouse is the sole beneficiary of that contract. Therefore, the cause of action must fail," the court ruled.

Stamps In The News

To commemorate the 20th anniversary of the signing and ratification of the United Nations Charter, the Trust Territory of Papua and New Guinea has issued three new stamps of unusual design.

The 6 pence blue, green and brown show a mother with her child symbolizing the humanitarian aspect of the United Nations. The 1 shilling violet, blue and orange, and the 2 shilling green and blue depict the globe in its orbit. The U.N. emblem serves as a focal point of the designs of all three stamps.

New Guinea has special ties with the U.N. Formerly a German colony, it was administered by Australia at the end of World War I under mandate from the League of Nations. Following World War II it became a trust of the U.N. and is now administered jointly with Papua which is an Australian territory.

THE 1966 EDITION of H. E. Harris' U. S. and British North America catalog is now off the press. It contains over 3,200 price changes and 2,000 illustrations in its 160 pages. Included are all U. S. issues—postage, airmails, postage dues, special delivery, revenues, envelopes and postal cards.

Also featured are plate blocks, mint sheets, zip blocks and first-day covers. Listings include United Nations, Confederate States, Canada and other British North America sections. The price is 75 cents and can be obtained directly from H. E. Harris & Co., Box A, Boston, Mass.

FOUR NEW STAMPS have been issued by Malawi to commemorate the Chilembwe uprising of 1915, reports the British Crown Agents in Washington. The design is the same for all values showing Chilembwe with a crowd of people following him. The uprising was an attempt to gain equal rights for the Negroes.

GREECE HAS issued three new stamps to honor the International Astronomical Congress held in Athens. Each stamp carried a different design symbolic of the Space Age. The 50 lepta shows symbols of the planets of our solar system. The 5.50 drachmae depicts an astronaut. The 6 drachmae illustrates the meeting of two space ships. Also issued by Greece was a set for the XXIV Balkan Games held at the new Karaiskakis Stadium.

JAPAN HAS ISSUED a new yen regular stamp showing a Noh Mask (female mask) used in the cultural and theatrical life of that nation. This new stamp will replace the stamp depicting Buddha and a plane.

Beaver Farmers Get Grazing Data

Farmers who diverted acreage under the 1965 feed grain and wheat certificate programs may graze this acreage without losing program benefits, Glen Campbell, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee in Beaver County has announced.

The starting date for such grazing was October 1, ending the six month period during which the no-grazing provision was in effect.

The chairman stressed that the program relaxation regarding use of the acreage applies only to grazing. Harvesting hay on the acreage is not permitted. Land diverted under the conservation reserve program may not be grazed or harvested through the entire year.

Beaver County farms participating in the 1965 feed grain and wheat certificate programs number about 261.

There will be no fall sign-up for a 1966-crop wheat program according to the ASCS County Office. Legislation now is under consideration by the Congress which would provide a voluntary wheat certificate and a feed grain program and if these are authorized, signups under both programs will be held next spring.

In the meantime, farm wheat allotments have been determined under permanent legislation and they have been mailed to producers.

Any questions about the allotments should be referred to the ASC County Committee.

Class Of 1915 Schedules 50th Reunion On Sunday

Men and women in their late 60's and early 70's who saw each other last in some instances as sprightly girls and dashing young men in their teens will meet again here Sunday afternoon for the 50th anniversary reunion of the East Liverpool High School Class of 1915.

The informal program will begin at 1:30, followed by a dinner. About 24 reservations have been made, representing the members of the class and their husbands and wives.

The class, which had 57 members, was the first ever to be graduated from the present high school building at E. 4th St. and Broadway.

The Class of 1915 spent about three and a half years as students at the present Central Building. The new high school was under construction and when it was completed in February 1915, the high school operation was transferred there. The class remained at the new building just five months, as the graduation was the following June.

The committee in charge of locating members of the class was comprised of Mrs. Vance McBane of Salem, Francis Wise, now an editorial writer on the Youngstown Vindicator, and City Auditor Lawrence J. Zollinger.

Zollinger said about 23 members of the class still are alive, as far as can be determined. Six members were located in East Liverpool. Letters have been received from others who will be unable to attend — some from as far away as Arizona — and they will be read as part of the program tomorrow.

Zollinger said the plans for the reunion already have helped re-establish old friendships.

"I hadn't seen Francis Wise for 47 or 48 years, but I have talked with him on the telephone three or four times in the last few weeks," he said.

Wise is expected to act as master of ceremonies.

To the Class of 1915, the high school was a large, strange building "and we just rattled around in it and sometimes got lost," Zollinger recalled.

The class was only about one-sixth the size of the present-day classes at ELHS, he remarked.

The Kermans, the high school newspaper of the day, commented on the move to the new building 50 years ago.

"At last, on Feb. 8, our hopes of several years were realized and we obtained the long-awaited high school," it said.

Mayor George E. Willshaw and School Supt. Paul Blair have been invited to the reunion.

Athletic Program Reviewed During Midland Meeting

The athletic program at Midland High School was discussed during a meeting of the Midland Mothers Athletic Association Thursday night at the high school.

Mrs. Jack Haggerty, president, was in charge.

Brief talks were given by Joseph Cochran, football coach; Rey Peduzzi and Allan College, assistant football coaches; Mike Raich, a member of the Midland School Board; Vic Martinetti, athletic director; Edgar Richards, superintendent of schools, and William Walters, principal.

A question-and-answer period followed.

Tentative plans were made to sponsor a public card party Nov. 10.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. William Marcum, Mrs. George Tepovich and Mrs. Lester Barr.

MILLION SAFE MAN HOURS. The Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. announced today that it has worked in excess of one million consecutive man hours without a lost-time accident. Guy F. McCracken, left, works manager, offers congratulations on the performance to Charles F. Resing of Calcutta, center, corporate director of safety, and to William Buck of East Liverpool, chairman of the safety committee of Local 1212 of the United Steelworkers of America.

Hancock County's PTA Unit Spurs 'Membership Month'

October is "PTA Membership Drive Month," Mrs. George Mrvos, membership chairman for the Hancock County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations, has announced.

The goals of the drive, with the national theme "Invitation to the Nation — Join the PTA," were listed as follows:

To seek out persons who do not yet belong to the PTA and personally invite them to join.

To point up PTA purposes and opportunities to serve children and youth.

To organize PTA's and also pre-school sections where they are needed.

To bring independent groups of parents and teachers into membership with the state and national congress.

To keep members alert to critical needs and challenges to fill them through PTA action programs.

Most PTA members have a general knowledge of PTA purposes, but general knowledge is not enough for membership committees, Mrs. Mrvos said. Getting ready to give people good reasons for joining local PTA's requires individual study of the history and accomplishments of the PTA movement, she added.

The chairman announced that a state PTA election convention will be held Oct. 27-29 in Parkersburg.

Negro Demonstrators Open Attack On Georgia Governor

CRAWFORDVILLE, Ga. (AP) — Negro demonstrators in Crawfordville, Ga. have opened an attack on Georgia's governor and stepped up their taunting of state police assigned to guard them.

Further demonstrations were planned today in the campaign which Negro leaders say is aimed primarily at school integration. The protest was triggered about two weeks ago when all Tallapoosa County white pupils transferred to other counties rather than integrate.

In Natchez, Miss., Negro leaders halted demonstrations until Tuesday after handing city officials a list of demands Friday. Nearly 500 persons have been arrested there since demonstrations resumed a week ago.

At Crawfordville, 150 demonstrators huddled on the courthouse lawn Friday night as about a dozen whites watched from a distance. The courthouse rallies, a daily and nightly routine, have been largely ignored by white residents of the rural northeast Georgia town.

Negro leaders at Natchez warned demonstrations will resume if their demands are rejected. "I wouldn't dare ask them not to march again if the city doesn't do something this time," said Charles Evers, state field leader for the NAACP.

Couple Plead Not Guilty In Two Murders

FLAGSTAF, Ariz. (AP) — Dixie Lee Radcliff and Donald Boggs pleaded innocent Friday to indictments accusing them of murdering two men while en route to Nevada to be married.

The Ohio couple listened intently as the charges were read in Superior Court. Dixie's occasional giggle was the only show of emotion.

Judge Laurance T. Wren said their trial on two counts of murder each would be scheduled soon.

Miss Radcliff, 16-year-old daughter of an Amesville, Ohio, evangelist, and Boggs, 23-year-old ex-convict from Londonderry, Ohio, are accused of killing two men who gave them a ride on a trip to Nevada to be married.

Robert Willis, 23, and Halvor Johnson, 28, both of Newport, N. H., were found shot to death near Ash Fork, Ariz.

Police said Boggs orally admitted a third killing in Utah and a fourth near San Antonio, Tex.

Miss Radcliff, who had not seen Boggs since their capture a month ago, scarcely glanced at him as a matron led her into the courtroom.

Both stared solemnly ahead when the indictments were read, although she chuckled on several occasions and fidgeted with her hands behind her. Dixie was dressed neatly in a light green blouse, dark green skirt with a black jumper.

A transcript of the grand jury proceedings, including the names of witnesses who testified, was requested by Thomas Brooks, Boggs' court-appointed attorney.

Brooks and William Egan, Miss Radcliff's attorney, said they reserved the right to attack the validity of the indictments.

A ruling is expected next Monday by Superior Court Judge Smith Gibbons on a habeas corpus petition seeking Miss Radcliff's release from jail.

Criminal Cases Reported At 290

LISBON — A total of 291 criminal cases were filed in the county's area courts during September, Carl L. Stacey, clerk of courts, reports.

He also noted 81 civil actions last month in the courts at Salem, East Palestine and Lisbon.

A total of $2,868.20 was paid to the county treasurer, representing 55 per cent of patrol cases and other fines, while 45 per cent paid to the state from patrol fines amounted to $1,981.80.

Court costs paid to the county treasurer in civil and criminal cases amounted to $1,835.63, while sheriff, constable and city police fees paid out came to $323.85.

Newton Falls Surprises Potters To Gain 16-14 Victory

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

East Liverpool's last-ditch effort to avert an upset fell short as a smaller Newton Falls team walked off with a surprising 16-14 victory Friday night at Patterson Field.

A homecoming crowd of some 3,400, lowest attendance mark of the season, looked on as the Potters' record fell to 2-2-1. Meanwhile, Newton Falls, beaten for the first time in four games last week by Ravenna, pushed its record to 4-1.

BEFORE last night's game, Coach Andy Pike of Newton Falls listed his main problem as lack of depth. The Tigers from Trumbull County used only 12 players and the "gallant Falls unleashed a 70-yard pass play, which saw quarterback George Manovich hit veteran end Ed Matas at midfield. Matas then dodged several Potters, received a key block at the 35 and outraced the Blue and White defenders to the end zone.

The touchdown came with 10:31 remaining to tie the contest at 14-14.

All Newton Falls needed was a one- or two-point conversion. The Tigers lined up for a placement, but faked it, and Manovich, who was holding, raised up and lobbed an easy two-point pass to end Ed Matas for the margin of victory as East Liverpool was caught completely off guard.

The Potters didn't call it quits, however, and were almost in an ideal position to win, but an offside penalty with five minutes to go cost them the opportunity to have the ball on the Newton Falls five-yard line.

A BAD snap from center sailed over the head of Matas, but he recovered, and finally was brought down on the five. An East Liverpool player was detected for being offside, however, and the ball was brought back to the Tigers' 42, from where Matas was able to punt to the Potter 26.

With 4:45 remaining, the Potters still couldn't get going and punted from their own 35 to the Tigers' 33 as 2:32 remained in the game.

Newton Falls was forced to punt and the Potters took possession on their own 40 with 1:04 left in the game.

AFTER two passes failed, Winters hit end Bob Woods, who made a fine stop-and-go maneuver to get behind his defenders. The play covered 45 yards to the Newton Falls 15.

With 40 seconds to go, a first down pass failed. Then, on second down, Winters ran with the ball and got three yards, but knocked an important 19 seconds off the clock. A third-down pass failed and East Liverpool got its last chance with 15 seconds remaining as Winters couldn't pass against the onrushing Tigers and was forced out of bounds at the 20.

Only nine seconds remained when Newton Falls took over on downs. One play ended the contest.

NEWTON Falls had drawn first blood in the opening period by keeping the football for seven minutes and driving 66 yards for the touchdown, climaxed when fullback John Kezele crashed over from three yards out. Gary King ran the conversion for an 8-0 lead.

The Potters mounted a drive when they got their hands on the ball and marched to the Tigers' 22-yard line. Winters rolled out and moved to the two to set the stage for Marchbanks, who went over a play later and Winters ran the conversion.

The Potters scored on the second play of the second quarter as 11:13 showed on the clock. (Turn to POTTERS, Page 13)

Oliva, Allison Hobbled By Leg Injuries

Pascual To Face Dodgers' Osteen

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Minnesota Twins, still to suffer the pangs of World Series defeat, limped into the third game against the Los Angeles Dodgers today with outfielders Tony Oliva and Bob Allison hobbled by pulled leg muscles.

The American League champions held a 2-0 advantage over the National League titleholders, winning the first two games, 8-2 and 5-1, in Minnesota.

Veteran right-hander Camilo Pascual was Manager Sam Mele's choice to try to make it three in a row for the Twins. Dodger Manager Walter Alston countered with left-hander Claude Osteen, who beat the Twins five for five as an American Leaguer.

While the Twins ruled a 3-1 favorite to win the Series, the Dodgers were made a 13-10 choice to take the third game, largely because it was to be the first in Los Angeles. A sell-out crowd of 56,000 was virtually assured.

Although confident his Twins will maintain the same superiority over the Dodgers in Los Angeles as they had in Minnesota, Mele was more than a little disturbed over the condition of two of his top sluggers.

Mele revealed the players' condition Friday before the team engaged in an hour and a half workout at Dodger Stadium.

Oliva and Allison attempted to minimize their injuries although both spent a good deal of time in the trainer's room Friday undergoing treatment that included diathermy and massaging. Both had their thighs heavily taped afterwards.

"Not too good, not too bad. Just so-so," said Oliva when asked about his condition. The injury is an aggravation of an earlier muscle pull that kept him out of the last five games of the regular season.

Allison was more explicit. "I think I'll be all right," he said, "but I won't know until I try running on it. I won't do that until tomorrow."

The Dodgers, in the meantime, were concerned with their own troubles, namely anemic hitting against Minnesota pitching.

They did report one casualty, however. Lefty Jim Brewer aggravated an elbow injury in the opener and trainer Wayne Anderson recommended he see no more action in the Series.

"In the final analysis, it's what you do between those bases and they're still 90 feet apart no matter what park you play in."

"The way we played the first two games, they'd have beaten us in Dartmouth."

Dartmouth, Ohio, is Alston's home town.

The Dodgers' position, while not frantic, certainly is precarious. They've got to win at least two out of three to bring the Series back to Minnesota.

Win or lose today, the Dodgers will face Jim Grant and Jim Kaat, the right-lefty duo who limited them to three runs in the first two games. Grant goes Sunday and Kaat Monday.

Alston will come back with Drysdale and Sandy Koufax. Drysdale, a 23-game winner during the regular season, was blasted from the box in the third inning of the opener, giving up seven runs on as many hits.

Koufax, 26-8 during the regular season, bowed out for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning of the second game, trailing 2-1. He admitted he didn't have his stuff.

Drysdale will pitch Sunday and, barring a Minnesota sweep, Koufax will face Kaat Sunday.

ers as Big Red scored the first three times it handled the ball. The first tally came on the third play from scrimmage, when fullback Bob Smith broke up the middle and outraced the Tiger secondary on a 64-yard sprint. Less than two minutes had elapsed in the contest. A kick for the extra point failed and the hosts led, 6-0.

The second Steubenville touchdown came after Bob Endres intercepted a Chris Thornton pass on the Big Red goal line and returned it to the 13 to set up an 87 - yard drive.

Steubenville used nine plays to reach the end zone with halfback Mike Palmer battling off Wellsville tacklers the last 32 yards. Endres connected with end Dwight Sims for the two-point conversion and a 14-0 lead with 2:24 left in the first period.

WELLSVILLE had marched from its own 35 to the Big Red 41 before Endres' interception stopped the drive.

At the turn of the second period, Steubenville took possession on its own 46 on a punt return and continued its grind to victory. A 37 - yard pass from Endres to Palmer that caught the Tiger defense off guard netted a 20-0 advantage. An Endres to Bob Booth pass tallied the points after and a 22-0 margin with 10:21 showing in the second quarter.

WHILE the offense scored at will, the Big Red defense held the Tigers at a standstill. Doing a major job in throttling the Wellsville attack was Sims, 186-pound end, who took Chris Thornton as personal property and held the Tiger "Thunder" at bay. Thornton carried the ball 13 times for a net yardage of 45 and Sims caught him four times for losses totaling 13 yards.

E. Palestine Collects 1st Win At Lisbon, 8-6

LISBON — East Palestine made a first period touchdown hold up in winning its first game of the season, 8-6, over winless Lisbon here Friday night.

Ray Bush dashed eight yards to paydirt in the opening quarter and Walt Herriott added the deciding conversion.

Lisbon bounced back in the second quarter when Don Blair climaxed a sustained march by going over from the one. A fumble on the conversion prevented Lisbon from tying the contest.

Lisbon was inside East Pal-

Ryan Returns But Green Out At Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ryan is in but Green is out as the Browns make final preparations for their encounter tonight with the Pittsburgh Steelers at Municipal Stadium.

Quarterback Frank Ryan, who sat out Sunday's game at Philadelphia because of a badly bruised foot, is ready to play tonight, but halfback Ernie Green is hampered by a hip injury.

Leroy Kelly will fill in for Green, making his first start at halfback.

End Johnny Brewer has had back trouble this week and may be replaced tonight by Ralph Smith.

Art Modell, Browns' president, and Mike Nixon, Pittsburgh head coach, both have promised fireworks for the capacity crowd.

Modell furnished fireworks as an added attraction at the exhibition doubleheader Sept. 4, and the pyrotechnics were so successful he promised a repeat performance for the only night game of the regular season.

Nixon, whose Steelers have lost three straight games without a victory, said he will have some offensive surprises for the Browns. The Steelers have given Cleveland trouble the last couple of seasons, and the Browns aren't likely to take Nixon's threat lightly. The Steelers stunned the Browns a year ago, when John Henry Johnson ran wild for a total of 200 yards rushing, leading Pittsburgh to a 23-7 victory.

The Browns were undefeated in four games when they were stopped by the Steelers last year. Cleveland goes into tonight's game with a 2-1 record, tied with three other clubs for the Eastern Division lead.

Leetonia Upsets Minerva In Tri-County Win, 20-16

LEETONIA — The Leetonia Bears fired the shot heard around the Tri-County circuit Friday night by coming from behind in the last three minutes to upset Minerva, 20-16.

George Bell cracked over from three yards out with three minutes remaining to put Leetonia in front 18-16 then Dinsio took a pass for the conversion and a 20-16 Leetonia victory.

The final touchdown was set up on a 45-yard pass from Jim DeJane to Jim Scullion.

The victory was the second in five games for Leetonia and second in three Tri-County battles. Minerva which showed up with a 3-1 record dropped its second game after chalking up three impressive victories.

Leetonia scored first when Jim Rance took a 19 yard TD pass from DeJane in the first quarter.

Minerva bounced back to take a 16-6 lead with two second period touchdowns. Paul Meinerding plunged over from the one and Irv Lutz went 23 yards for the other score but that was all Minerva was to score.

Leetonia came back with a third quarter touchdown as George Bell raced 26 yards to paydirt before scoring the clincher in the final period.

Stanton Fumbles 5 Times In 14-0 Defeat At Adena

Undeclared Adena took advantage of five fumbles to hand Stanton Local its first loss of the season, 14-0, Friday night at Adena.

Adena, which is leading the Ohio Valley Athletic Conference race with a 5-0 record, scored in the second and fourth periods.

Jim Malanowski went over from the three to climax a 50-yard drive and Dean Carter finished a 60-yard march by going over from the one early in the fourth period.

Fumbles cost Stanton scoring opportunities as the Red Raiders fumbled twice on the 25.

Stanton played without the services of Larry Spires, a tackle and defensive star of the Raiders. Spires has an ankle injury but started the game but couldn't continue.

Fumble Leads To Monaca Score In 6-0 Win Over Midland

Late Scoring Drive Fails For Leopards

A first period fumble led to the only touchdown of the game as Monaca surprised Midland with a 6-0 victory Friday night at the Midland High School Stadium.

Coach Joe Cochran elected to start Rich Mahurt at quarterback. After Midland had gained a first down on its own 35, Mahurt went to pitch out to Dave Vanlier but the ball was wide and Monaca's John DeChellis fell on the ball at the Midland 29.

THE VISITING Indians immediately took advantage of their situation and quarterback Gary Mattes flipped a pass to half-back Sam Setting good for 23 yards to the Midland six.

An offside penalty cost Midland three more yards to the three and a play later Mattes went over on a sneak as 40 seconds remained in the first period.

MONACA drove to the Midland 10 late in the first half as time expired.

Eight Players Of Team Have Skin Disease

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—Eight Atwater High School football players have what appears to be staphylococcus, a skin disease, which is forcing cancellation of today's game with North Lima.

The Portage County school about 12 miles south of here reported the cases Friday. Analysis of cultures will not be completed until Monday.

Until then, Portage County health officials have quarantined the boys in their homes and the school is sterilizing all athletic equipment and using disinfectant in the locker room.

"We feel bad about the turn of events—particularly because the game would have been North Lima's homecoming," Coach Russ Webb said.

"Naturally we hope the tests prove negative and that we'll be able to continue playing our games this season," he added. Webb said he became concerned about the boys—all first-string players—when cuts and scratches failed to heal properly.

If the tests are positive, the athletic program and physical education classes will be cancelled. Health officials started to examine the entire Atwater School student body Friday for signs of infection.

2 Battles Tonight Launch Action In Pro Grid League

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pro football takes over in baseball-ecstatic Minnesota tonight when the home of the triumphant Twins becomes the playing ground for the Vikings and New York Giants.

Their National Football League game was shifted from Sunday to insure that the field at Metropolitan Stadium could be put back in shape before the possible return of the World Series.

Another big one in the NFL Saturday night puts the Pittsburgh Steelers against the Browns at Cleveland. On Sunday—the Detroit Lions play the Colts at Baltimore, the San Francisco 49ers meet the Packers at Green Bay, the Philadelphia Eagles and Cowboys play at Dallas, the St. Louis Cardinals face the Redskins at Washington and the Los Angeles

Rams take on the Bears at Chicago.

Sunday's only games in the American Football League are San Diego at Buffalo and Kansas City at Denver.

Cleveland—at 2-1 and tied for first in the Eastern Division with Dallas, New York and St. Louis—tackles the Steelers with star quarterback Frank Ryan still sub-par with a foot injury. However, Jim Ninowski ran the Browns last Sunday and they ran off from the Eagles with a scoring burst in the final quarter.

The Steelers are winless and share the Eastern cellar with Washington.

The Giants have looked better than expected, principally because of some talented rookies and the play of Earl Morrall, the veteran quarterback.

The Vikings, on the other hand, have been disappointing for a team expected to make a run at the title. They've given up 35, 31 and 35 points in three games, losing twice.

San Francisco-Green Bay and Detroit-Baltimore are Sunday's big ones, pairing off the Western Division's leading four clubs. The Packers and Lions are the NFL's only unbeaten teams, at 3-0, while the Colts and 49ers are 2-1.

The powerful Packers are favored solidly over San Francisco and the Colts are expected to overcome the defensively strong Lions.

Quarterback Dick Shiner, a second-year man, will be making the first start of his pro career when the Redskins meet the Cardinals. He has been given the job due to the ineffectual play of Sonny Jurgensen.

The Eagles also will have a reserve quarterback, King Hill, in action against the Cowboys. First-stringer Norm Snead is out with an injured knee.

The Bears are at home for the first time this season, after dropping three in a row on the road. One of them was to the Rams two weeks ago, by a 30-28 score. Chicago is favored to even matters Sunday.

Potters

fensive line gave way time after time.

A bright note was found in the passing department as Winters hit on six of 15 passes which produced 139 yards and a touchdown.

Defensively, linebacker Clarence Crable led the charges for the Potter defenders.

THE POTTERS had 10 first downs to seven for Newton Falls. The Tigers came up with a big edge in rushing yardage 115 to 45.

Following the game, Newton Falls Coach Andy Pike was quite proud of his team. "We had a lot of spirit and desire out there tonight and it's a big victory for us when a smaller school can play a larger school and win."

Enrollment-wise, Newton Falls is about half the size of East Liverpool.

Palmer Sends Americans To Top In Ryder
SOUTHPORT, England (AP)—Arnie Palmer today took on his familiar role as Uncle Sam's top gun in world golf—and led the final American assault against the British in the battle for the Ryder Cup.

With the Americans leading 9-7 and 16 singles matches to come, the Latrobe, Pa., star was flung straight into the front line of the firing line and was named to play Britain's Jimmy Hitchcock in the first match of the day.

Hitchcock was a second choice, substituted by the British for the ailing Christy O'Connor. Going straight against Palmer, he had the toughest job of the day.

Palmer was part of the way at his scintillating best Friday, when the Americans got their noses in front by winning four four-ball foursomes, losing two and halving two.

Palmer and his partner, Dave Marr of Larchmont, N.Y., hammered O'Connor and Peter Alliss 6 and 4 in the morning, with Arnie making a stream of birdies. In the afternoon Palmer's putting was off and O'Connor and Alliss won by two holes.

Palmer was still the idol of the 14,000 persons who thronged the 7,037-yard, par-73 Royal Birkdale links—the course where he won the British Open in 1961.

Today, the Americans needed only to break even to win the cup for the 13th time in 16 meetings between the two countries.

If Palmer did what was expected of him, beat Hitchcock, the British were going to be in a tough spot indeed.

The matches have been desperately close thus far, and for the American team only Tommy Jacobs of Denver, Colo., came through the two days with a perfect record. He was left out of the line-up on Thursday, but Friday he helped Don January of Dallas, Tex., chalk up two victories over Dave Thomas, the big driving Welshman, and Scotland's George Will.

Jacobs and Thomas were paired against each other in the singles today.

Tony Lema of Marcos Island, Fla., meets Peter Butler—the Englishman with the hot putter.

Also on this morning's schedule were Julius Boros, of Southern Pines, N.C., vs. Lionel Platts, Marr vs. Neil Coles, Gene Littler of La Jolla, Calif., vs. Bernard Hunt, Billy Casper of San Diego, Calif. vs. Alliss and January vs. Will.

Palmer Sends Americans To Top In Ryder

SOUTHPORT, England (AP)—Arnie Palmer today took on his familiar role as Uncle Sam's top gun in world golf—and led the final American assault against the British in the battle for the Ryder Cup.

With the Americans leading 9-7 and 16 singles matches to come, the Latrobe, Pa., star was flung straight into the front line of the firing line and was named to play Britain's Jimmy Hitchcock in the first match of the day.

Hitchcock was a second choice, substituted by the British for the ailing Christy O'Connor. Going straight against Palmer, he had the toughest job of the day.

Palmer was part of the way at his scintillating best Friday, when the Americans got their noses in front by winning four four-ball foursomes, losing two and halving two.

Junior Editors Quiz on CHOPSTICKS

QUESTION: Why do the Chinese use chopsticks instead of a knife and fork?

ANSWER: Primitive men used their hands to eat with. But one of the signs of civilization is that we enjoy having clean hands and don't like to get them smeared with grease and food materials. Both our knives and forks and the Chinese chopsticks developed for the same reason: to make the process of eating cleaner and more pleasant. Although spoons were used from Egyptian days, our use of the fork only began in 1100 A. D. and was not general until the 1500's. We use knife, fork and spoon because our food is served to us in large pieces which we must then cut up and manipulate. By contrast, the Eastern custom is to cut up the food in small pieces before serving it. For this, the slender sticks we call chopsticks are highly efficient to eat with, and once you are used to them, very easy to handle. Our picture shows the principle.

Have fun making yourself a pair of chop sticks and trying the Eastern eating system. Whittle down two straight wooden sticks, about 10 inches long, until they are a little thinner than a pencil. Practice holding the lower one steady and moving the upper stick down to it. Then cut up some food and see if you can lift it, turning your chop sticks so they are parallel to the plate.

FOR YOU TO DO: Give a chopsticks dinner party with cut up food and sets of sticks you have made—with prizes for those who finish with chopsticks alone. Have knives and forks handy for hungry guests who lose their patience.

Jayne Muko of Norwalk, Conn., wins today's combined prize of Compton's Illustrated Science Dictionary plus $10 cash for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

How Can I?

ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I keep the buttonholes from fraying when working them into loosely woven fabrics?
A.—You can achieve a good, long-lasting buttonhole if you'll first apply a thin line of clear fingernail polish exactly where the hole is to be made. Let this dry, then cut the buttonhole with a razor blade or buttonhole scissors, and work as usual.

Q.—How can I clean stained suede shoes?
A.—Brush to remove all dust particles, then hold the shoe over the steaming spout of a teakettle long enough to raise the nap, but no longer than to get the shoes wet. A steam iron is fine for this too. Brush up the nap with a soft brush.

Q.—How can I make an oak stain?
A.—By mixing a quart of boiled linseed oil, three gills of turpentine, six tablespoons of raw umber, and six tablespoons of whiting.

Q.—Is it absolutely necessary that I clean and wash out a paint brush when I am intending to use it again on the same job the following day?
A.—No. All you have to do is protect the bristles of the brush from the air, and you can do this by wrapping them tightly in aluminum foil, twisting and shaping the end of the sheet around the brush handle. This will prevent the paint from hardening in the bristles.

Wife Of Soldier Burglar Victim

CLEVELAND (AP)—A burglar broke into the apartment of Mrs. Gerlinde Lee, whose husband is in South Viet Nam, and stole the money Mrs. Lee said she had set aside for rent and food until her next government check arrives Nov. 1.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," said the 30-year-old mother of three. "I get only one check monthly for $260. I used the rest of the money to make furniture and other payments. I had planned to pay my rent and buy food with what was stolen."

Times, Guild Reach Accord In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The strikebound New York Times and the AFL-CIO New York Newspaper Guild have reached a tentative contract agreement. If the Guild ratifies it, it will mean the end of the city's partial newspaper shutdown, now 24 days old.

Negotiators for the Times and Guild accepted the contract formula Friday at the urging of Mayor Robert F. Wagner. It was the same settlement plan that both sides had rejected the day before.

Thomas J. Murphy, executive vice president of the New York Guild, predicted Times guild membership would accept the contract at a meeting Sunday.

John J. Gaherin, president of the Publishers Association of New York, said member papers which had shut down in support of the Times would resume publishing as soon as possible.

Gaherin said three papers which publish Sunday editions — the Daily News, the Journal-American and the Long Island Press — would try to have them out Sunday.

The other shutdown papers — the World Telegram and Sun and the Long Island Star-Journal, were expected to resume publication Monday. Both are afternoon dailies, as are the Journal-American and Long Island Press.

The Times, a morning paper, said it could not resume publication before Monday.

The afternoon New York Post, which withdrew from the publishers association during the 114-day strike and shutdown of 1962-63, has continued publishing throughout the Guild strike which began Sept. 16. The morning Herald Tribune resigned from the association and resumed publication Sept. 27.

The contract formula tentatively agreed on Friday was recommended by Theodore H. Kheel, a labor expert who entered the newspaper dispute last month at Wagner's request.

Wagner met Friday with Times and Guild negotiators and 3½ hours later announced they had decided to accept Kheel's terms. Wagner also was instrumental in settling the 1962-63 shutdown, when he presided over marathon negotiating sessions at City Hall.

Prices Increased

PITTSBURGH — The Fabricated Metals Division of H. K. Porter Co., Inc., has increased base prices an average of 8 per cent on tool steel and drill rod, effective with shipments Monday. Tool steel and drill rod are used by the automotive, machine tool and other manufacturing industries. Selling prices are practically the same or lower today on most grades than they were in 1959, while costs have continued to increase. Employment cost per pound of steel shipped has increased 32 per cent during this period. In addition, there have been substantial increases in raw materials, including alloying elements, division officials said.

$150,000 Blaze Hits Club Site Near Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP)—A fire of unknown origin caused an estimated $150,000-200,000 damage to the 50-year-old Westwood Country Club in suburban Rocky River.

About 45 men in six companies from the surrounding area were called to fight the fire Friday night. It took them an hour to bring it under control.

The board of directors was to meet today to decide whether to repair the damage or completely rebuild the clubhouse.

Construction equipment on a $1 million remodeling and expansion program hampered firemen's efforts.

Most of the 25 employees of the club were on duty at the time the fire broke out. Fire Chief Charles R. Duggan, who estimated the damage, said the fire apparently started in the linen storage area in the women's locker room on the second floor.

The second floor was destroyed and the main dining room and the cocktail lounge on the first floor were damaged extensively by smoke and water.

The golf course at the club is popular among entertainers and professional athletes.

How Can I? ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—What can be done about animal stains on rugs?

A.—Clean these as quickly as possible. Sponge the stains with a solution consisting of a half-cup of salt to a quart of water. Follow by sponging with a solution of one part ammonia to 20 parts of water. Best results are achieved when soonest applied.

Q.—How can I save the paint that invariably collects in the indented rim of a paint can, flows down the outside of the can, and is wasted?

A. If you'll punch several nail holes in the bottom of this indented rim, the paint will run down into the can again.

Q.—What is an easy way to remove burned spots from the insides of enamel saucepans?

A.—Fill these pans with salt water and let soak for about two hours, then cover the pan tightly, and bring to a slow boil. The burned particles will then almost fall out.
